Supplier Sustainability in CEMEX

As a part of our Supplier Sustainability Program, CEMEX embraces the pursuit of economic performance, environmental quality and social responsibility. Our Program is part of a continuous process that promotes a profitable and well-built relationship between CEMEX and its suppliers. This Program is based on four phases:

a) Self-assessment questionnaire to identify potential actions for innovation, development and implementation of sustainable practices

b) Communication of CEMEX’s practices and beliefs

c) Development and implementation of sustainable policies

d) Recognition of our suppliers’ sustainable practices

The Code of Conduct when doing business with us is part of the third out of four phases of our Program and it is comprised by ten principles that CEMEX expects to honor when working with its business partners.

We invite you to read this document and to adhere to these ten principles to ensure a trustful, lawful and fair work environment.

Sincerely,

Vicente Saiso
Corporate Sustainability Director

The practice of offering and accepting business gifts and courtesies varies among many jurisdictions. Gift-giving is also an important component of many cultural traditions around the globe. Therefore, deciding which types of gifts are acceptable to offer or accept can be difficult.

When confronted with a gift-giving scenario, ask yourself the following questions:

- Is this a gift I would give to any other customer, supplier or business partner? Would our customer, supplier or business partner offer such a gift to others as well?
- Is this gift work-appropriate?
- Are these gifts given infrequently at appropriate times—such as promotions or major holidays?
- Will offering or accepting this gift appear to make me or my business partner biased?
- If I offer or accept this gift, and the media finds out, could it damage my reputation or that of my company?

Acceptable gifts may include:
- Promotional items, such as pens, books, notepads, mugs or magnets.
- Seasonal gift baskets or other commonplace items.
- Greeting cards and notes of gratitude for service.
- Institutional books.

We require our suppliers not to offer us this kind of gifts:
- Cash or cash equivalents, such as checks, gift cards or gift certificates.
- Luxury items, such as expensive watches or pens, fine wine or expensive electronics.
- Expensive tickets to an exclusive or sold-out event, such as a sporting event or a theater production not available to the public.
